Gebrüder Weiss is further expanding its transport and logistics services in Poland: since the beginning of 2025, the international logistics company has also been offering its customers national and international partial and full truck loads (LTL / FTL) as well as additional warehousing and logistics solutions, including order picking.

Companies can use the myGW customer portal to track their shipments in real time and have all documents available in digital form. The new services complement Gebrüder Weiss' existing logistics, air and sea freight services on offer since 2020. As a result, the team is growing to 70 employees.

“Our goal is to offer companies in Poland with a first-class and comprehensive range of logistics services,” emphasizes René Stranz, Area Manager Slovakia and Poland at Gebrüder Weiss. “By combining different modes of transport, our customers will be able to react even more flexibly to market requirements and make their supply chains more efficient in the future.”

Poland has become a sought-after production and warehousing location within Europe. Its economy grew three times faster than the EU average in 2024 thanks to rising consumer spending. Poland is an important trading partner and export market, especially for German companies, but also for imports from Asia and the US. At the same time, the transport infrastructure is being continually expanded, including a new major airport with an international freight center.

Today, Gebrüder Weiss in Poland has branches in Krakow, Wroclaw, Gdynia and Warsaw. Its customers come mainly from the high-tech, automotive, consumer goods and e-commerce industries. In addition to transport, the logistics provider also handles the storage and order picking of pharmaceuticals that require special refrigeration for companies in the pharmaceutical industry. In order to optimize its customers' supply chains even more comprehensively, the logistics company is also planning to expand its offer as a Lead Logistics Provider in the medium term.

“Depending on how the economy develops, further locations are also possible,” says Maciej Szczyglowski, Country Manager Poland Land & Logistics at Gebrüder Weiss. “For example, in Wroclaw or Katowice, where we can imagine new logistics terminals for goods handling.”
